try, has been named executive vice president and general counsel of Vanguard Title Agency, Inc.

The appointment of Friedman, one of the most highly regarded experts in his field, is considered a major coup and is intended to give Vanguard a strong advantage with respect to originating and underwriting commercial New York, national and international high liability transactions, according to Jarett Fein, president and founder of Vanguard.

“Joe Friedman is the undisputed dean of the title insurance world. His analytical skills, extensive legal experience and attention to detail make him one of the most recognizable names in title insurance today,” said Fein.
